THREE OTHER BAD WRECKS

Salt Lake, Utah, Feb. 23.—Clint B. Leigh, formerly managing editor of the Owensboro Messenger and brother of Edward O. Leigh, secretary to Governor Beckham, was instantly killed in a wreck at Bingham, 15 miles from this city yesterday afternoon. Leigh, who came here from Owensboro several years ago to become city editor of the Evening Telegram, a few weeks ago accepted a position on the Herald and was assigned to the lower house of the Utah legislature in session here. Leigh accompanied a number of members of the legislature to Bingham to inspect the mines. The party boarded a flat car to ascend a steep grade leading to one of the mines, the car being pushed ahead by an engine. The train above them broke loose and crashed into them. Mr. Leigh was crushed in the wreck and died instantly. State Representative Seth Taft, of Wayne county, was fatally injured in the wreck. Speaker Harry Josephs of the lower house, was slightly hurt. Several other members of the party were injured.

Clinton B. Leigh.
The news of the death of Clinton B. Leigh of Salt Lake City, Utah, last night in a railway accident, flashed over the city today, carrying genuine sorrow in the wake of the shock of the announcement. As boy and man "Clint" Leigh was known and loved by a large circle of friends in Paducah, and respected by his more casual acquaintances. Quiet in disposition but of indomitable force of character and strong personality, he left his impress upon all who came in contact with him, which his winning, cordial manner and native tact served to deepen. Versatile and clever, yet studious, his intellect was above the average. A born newspaper man, he stood for the highest and best in his chosen profession, combining successfully the modern type with the more old-fashioned integrity. He was a successful man in the things that count, even more than in the world's mere froth of success, and yet he had his meed of this for so young a man; and it is that makes so doubly sad the sudden taking-off of a man accustomed to stand foursquare to his convictions rather than to the winds that blow.

Clinton Brooks Leigh was born in Gibson county, Tenn., February 25, 1865. He was the son of the late Rev. William H. Leigh and Mrs. Mary Brooks Leigh. His childhood was spent in Humboldt, Tenn. He came to Kentucky with his parents when 11 years of age, and lived in Mayfield one year, coming to Paducah in 1876. He was educated in Paducah public schools.

Mr. Leigh was an apprentice at the printers' trade even before leaving Tennessee, and followed it in the intervals of his school life, until he grew to manhood. In 1883 he went into a job office here with his brothers, Charles Q. G., Edward O. and Oliver P. Leigh, the style of the firm being Leigh Bros. In 1884 the firm established the Paducah Standard, of which Mr. Leigh had editorial charge in connection with Edward O. Leigh.

In 1889 the Standard was sold and Mr. Leigh went to Pratt, Kan., where he conducted a weekly paper

There is only one kind of a newspaper circulation statement that is worth any consideration, and that is the daily detailed statement. The Sun is the only Paducah paper printing such a statement.

for a year. He returned to Kentucky and was editor of the Owensboro Messenger for several years. He came to Paducah again in 1891 and was connected with the Paducah Dispatch, a paper conducted for a short while by the late James P. Thompson. After the Dispatch went out of existence he returned to the Owensboro Messenger.

In May, 1896, he established the Register with his brother, Edward O. Leigh and James E. Wilhelm. The Messrs. Leigh held their interest in the paper only a short while, and Clinton Leigh went to St. Louis, and was connected with the St. Louis Journal, which had a brief existence. He went from there to Louisville and was employed in an editorial capacity on several of the Louisville papers.

He again returned to Owensboro and was editor of the Messenger, until he went to Salt Lake in the spring of 1901. He was first city editor and later managing editor of the Salt Lake Telegram. He resigned from the Telegram only a few weeks ago and was connected at the time of death with the Salt Lake Herald.

Mr. Leigh was married in November 22, 1899 in Owensboro, to Miss Chrissie Pointer, of Owensboro, who survives him, with two little boys, Philip Pointer Leigh and Edward Oliver Leigh, aged 6 and 3. He leaves four brothers and one sister, Robert W. Leigh and Charles Q. C. Leigh of Chicago; Edward O. Leigh of Frankfort, Ky.; Oliver P. Leigh and Miss Ora V. Leigh, of Paducah. Nothing has been heard by the family here of any details as to whether Mr. Leigh will be brought to Kentucky or not. His father and mother lie in the family lot at Oak Grove cemetery. Mr. Edward O. Leigh is expected here tonight.

Plunged From Trestle.

Dubuque, Ia., Feb. 23.—A combination coach and a loaded coal car of train No. 103 on the Milwaukee and North Western between Bellevue and Cascade jumped the track at a curve on a trestle over a small stream near Washington Mills and fell 40 feet to day, landing with the coal car on top of the coach, in which were ten passengers. The coach was completely wrecked and one passenger killed, two fatally injured and seven seriously injured.

Thirteen Hurt in Crash.

St. Paul, Minn., Feb. 23.—Thirteen persons were hurt, one probably fatally and four seriously by a collision on the Great Western railroad, six miles south of Hayfield, Minn. The train wrecked was the Chicago bound night express. The freight train which was ahead of the express broke down and the passenger train was helping it into a siding. A flagman who had been sent back returned before the track was clear and an extra crashed into the express train completely wrecking the baggage and mail cars.

CHAS. REED ANNOUNCES.

Will Run for Mayor in Response to Call.

Numerous friends and citizens of Paducah have solicited me to become a candidate for mayor of the city of Paducah; feeling deeply impressed with the honor conferred, and knowing that every citizen owes his community a certain duty, if I can be of service to this community, it will be my greatest desire. Should I receive the nomination for mayor, I want to assure the citizens of Paducah, all and all alike, that my constant aim will be for the good of Paducah its progress and its future. Thanking you, and placing my name before the good citizens of this city as a candidate for mayor, subject to the Democratic primary, I remain, very sincerely,
CHARLES REED.

FURTHER EFFORT MADE BY SHERIFF

Required to Comply With Law of Delinquent Taxes.

Fiscal Court Deducts $23,000 From His Report—Poor House Committee.

SHERIFF ASKS PAY FOR BOOK.

Fiscal court resumed their session this morning at 10 o'clock and a basis of settlement with Sheriff John Ogilvie was agreed upon. $23,000 was deducted from his original report of $73,000, on the delinquent tax list. The court decided that sufficient efforts had not been made to find personal property to satisfy that much of the delinquent tax list and deducted the $23,000. If the whole amount had been accepted by the court and it afterward was shown that diligent efforts had not been made to find personal property to satisfy the taxes, the sheriff's bond would be liable for the amount paid out by the county. The action of the fiscal court is based on the opinion of County Attorney Alben Barkley, who contended that the new law should be strictly complied with. A committee was appointed to figure out the settlement and will report to the court when they re-convene this afternoon. All business will be finished today.

Poor House Committee.
Judge Lightfoot will call the committee having the new poor house in charge, together next week to wind up its business. Judge Lightfoot stated that on the advice of one member of the committee he had taken out insurance on the new building, and that he later discovered that some of the other members of the committee had done likewise. The court decided that the two policies were not too much insurance on the building. The poor house will be occupied immediately, as the insurance provides that it shall be occupied while the policy is in force.

The report of the road supervisor for October, November and December was received showing that 10 miles of roads were repaired and constructed with gravel in that period. The cost of the work was $8,510.98. Sheriff John Ogilvie asked the court to refund him $125 on a book he had made in collecting the taxes. County Attorney Alben Barkley showed the court that the law threw the cost of all books used by the sheriff not prescribed by law, on the sheriff personally and that the book in question was not prescribed in law, though convenient to the business of the sheriff. On putting the question to the court, County Attorney Alben Barkley's opinion was sustained.

ROOSEVELT ARRIVES.

Boston, Feb. 23.—President Roosevelt and party arrived this morning. The president left the car immediately and was driven to the home of Dr. William S. Bigelow. Mrs. Roosevelt and other members of the party were driven to Mrs. George C. Lee's home.

IN BAILEY'S HONOR.

Austin, Tex., Feb. 23.—Testimony in the Senator Bailey investigation is closed. A big demonstration in Bailey's honor is arranged for Galveston, his home town, today. It had been postponed on account of the inability of Bailey to be there.

TWO MORE SHIPS.

San Francisco, Feb. 23.—It was learned in naval circles that the battleships Iowa and Indiana Bow are added to the Pacific Coast fleet as the nucleus of a strong force of armored vessels.

CONSTABLE HOLDS THE I. C. RAILROAD

Takes Charge of Freight and Passenger Station at Barlow for $40—Agent Couldn't Use Any Coal

PERMITS TRAINS TO PROCEED.

For a judgment of $40, traffic on the Cairo division of the Illinois Central was stopped temporarily yesterday afternoon by the constable at Barlow, the depot was attached with the furniture and tickets, and the agent was not allowed to use the coal in the depot stove. The constable started at one time to attach the local freight standing on the track at the depot and prevent it moving away from the town.

In following out what he considered his conscientious duty, Constable H. B. Tanner, of Barlow, levied on the passenger station at Barlow yesterday afternoon, thereby preventing the agent from selling tickets, using the chairs and desks in the station or even burning the coal found in the coal bin. Determined that the judgment he had been given to levy, should be thoroughly safeguarded, Constable Tanner levied on the local freight at the depot and on all the property of the railroad in sight. Finally he agreed to permit the local freight to leave, but ordered one freight car cut out and left at the station.

After much persuasion the agent got the constable to allow him to burn some coal to keep the station warm, and the constable extended him the privilege of burning coal until today at 12 o'clock.

Fortunately no passenger train was due then, as no passengers could have gotten tickets.

CHAIRMAN BERRY NAMES COMMITTEE

W. A. Berry, chairman of the Democratic city committee, today announced the following members of the sub-committee to have charge of the primary May 2: J. M. Lang, J. P. Sleeth, Councilman Al Foreman and Gus Rogers. The sub-committee will meet with Chairman Berry on Wednesday night at 7:30 o'clock to consider the expenses of the primary and other preliminary matters.

After Runaway Boys.

Clyde WHELS, 11 years old, and John Cain, 14 years old, of Chicago, are somewhere on their way to Paducah, and Roundman Emil Goursiaux received a letter from W. W. Willis, 1770 Eighty-seventh street, father of one of the boys, asking him to keep a lookout for the youngsters, who are headed this way.

PLANS FOR PLANT WILL BE PUSHED

Harry M. Finley Purchases
Part of the McKinnie Veneer Company's Property in Me-chanicsburg

MOLDS HAVE BEEN SHIPPED.

Plans for the glass plant in Mechanicsburg will be pushed by Harry M. Finley, of Mechanicsburg, who arrived last night and this morning consummated a deal with the McKinnie Veneer and Package company for 200 feet from on Meyers streets adjoining the veneer works just across Island creek. The consideration was 15,000. Mr. Finley made the first shipment of molds this week from Leitchfield, Ill. He will bring 48 skilled glass blowers and other employees, whose wages run from $6 to $20 the week. He will employ about 130 laborers. He will invite bids for the erection of seven buildings, of the following dimensions: 74 by 60 feet, 100 by 50 feet, 42 by 36 feet, 42 by 40 feet, 36 by 58 feet, 37 by 24 feet, 12 by 24 feet. They will be brick and frame. Glass plants do not use warehouses.

FIRST DISTRICT COMMITTEE CALL

Frankfort, Ky., Feb. 23.—Mott Ayres, chairman of the Democratic committee of the First railroad commissioners' district, yesterday issued a call for a meeting of the committee to be held in Henderson on Saturday, March 2, at which time the manner and time for making a nomination will be determined.

CONGRESS BUSY.

Washington, Feb. 23.—Just eight legislative days are left before Congress reaches the end of the term March 4. Probably, however, next Saturday's session will continue until Sunday, without adjournment. Considerable business must be done on the Sabbath. Efforts will be made to avoid this by meeting early in the morning next week and holding night session.

LA CENTER COMPANY
ELECTS OLD OFFICERS

At the annual meeting of the stockholders of the La Center company at La Center yesterday, the old officers and directors were re-elected. A dividend of 5 per cent. was declared on the capital stock of $30,000. The directors for next year will be: J. A. Buer, president; S. T. Payne, vice president and general manager; C. E. Jennings, secretary and treasurer; J. D. Rollings, W. H. Viets, La Center; H. H. Loying, H. L. Meyers.

WIRES BREAKING UNDER THE SLEET

Trouble Clerks are Kept Busy Answering Calls and Sending out Men to Repair Damages to Service

LONG DISTANCE ALL RIGHT.

Only the rapid melting of the sleet, that decorated the wires and cables, poles and trees when Paducah citizens awoke this morning, prevented serious consequences to telephone, telegraph and street railway companies. As it is the trouble clerk of the Cumberland exchange has been busy answering calls and sending out men to repair wires. Where the cables were strung no damage was done, but the single wires suffered to a large extent.

Both the postal and Western Union Telegraph companies report their wires working satisfactorily in all directions. Long distance telephone connections are all right.

The Paducah Traction company had slight trouble in outlying districts this morning with wires breaking, but traffic was little discommoded.

All are watching developments of the day and night with apprehension.

Snow at Bowling Green.
Bowling Green, Ky., Feb. 23.—The heaviest snow of the winter is falling here since early this morning. The snow is already six inches deep on the ground.

May Have Skating Rink.

Paducah is promised a skating rink on certain contingencies, and no doubt the town will soon be wrapped in the sport as the host of other cities at towns throughout the country where it has attained great popularity, and seemingly, is the rage. Mr. Henry Arenz is in the city and is contemplating erecting a rink in Paducah.

BANK CLEARINGS SHOW INCREASE

Bank Clearings.
Clearings this week $579,887
Same week last year 565,268
Increase $14,619

The week has been uneventful in the business world. In the retail stores it is the calm before the rush of the spring business. The wholesale houses have had fair new business with indication of better condition when the weather breaks up.

Looking for Murderer.
Paducah police have been informed that a reward of $300 is offered by the authorities of Chaffee, Mo., for the arrest of Silas Young, colored, who killed Railroad Conductor George A. Wolff, there January 23. The fugitive is supposed to be near here.

STATE ISSUES DISCUSSED

In Speech Before Harvard Union He Deals With Responsibilities of College Men

MOST CAREFULLY PREPARED ADDRESS

Cambridge, Mass., Feb. 23.—President Roosevelt spoke before the Harvard Union at a reception in his honor this afternoon. His address, while in the beginning it was along the lines of the duty of college men and the responsibilities of the educated, branched out and included the president's final policy in regard to corporate control, and questions of state.

He spoke as follows:

President's Speech.
In speaking here at the Harvard union I wish to say first a special word as one Harvard man to his fellow Harvard men. I feel that we can none of us ever be sufficiently grateful to Colonel Higginson for having founded this Harvard union, because each loyal Harvard man should do all he can to foster in Harvard that spirit of real democracy which will make Harvard men feel the vital sense of solidarity so that they can all join to work together in the things that are of most concern to the college. It is idle to expect, nor indeed would it be desirable, that there should be, in Harvard a uniform level of taste and association. Some men will excel in one thing and some in another; some in things of the body, and some in things of the mind; and where thousands are gathered together each will naturally find some group of specially congenial friends with whom he will form ties of peculiar social intimacy. These groups—athletic, artistic, scientific, social—must inevitably exist. My plea is not for their abolition. My plea is that they shall be got into the right focus in the eyes of college men; that the relative importance of the different groups shall be understood when compared with the infinitely greater life of the college as a whole. Let each man have his special associates, his special interests, his special studies and pursuits, but let him remember that he can not get the full benefit of life in college if he does nothing but specialize; and that what is even more important, he can not do his full duty by the college unless his first and greatest interest is in the college itself, in his associates taken as a mass, and not in any small group. One reason why I so thoroughly believe in the athletic spirit at Harvard is because the athletic spirit is essentially democratic. Our chief interest should not lie in the great champions in sport. On the contrary our concern should be most of all to widen the base, the foundation in athletic sports; to encourage in every way a healthy rivalry which shall give to the largest possible number of students the chance to take part in vigorous outdoor games. It is of far more importance that a man shall play something himself even if he plays it badly, than that he shall go with hundreds of companions to see some one else play well; and it is not healthy for either students or athletes if the terms are mutually exclusive. But even having this aim especially in view, it seems to me we can best attain it by giving proper encouragement to the champions in the sports, and this can only be done by encour-

Gentlemen:
I received today through your superintendent, Mr. J. F. Nicholson, settlement in full of policy No. 21096 for $200 which I carried on the life of my son, James L. Clynne, who died Feb. 10.

I desire to thank you for your promptness in settling this matter and I also want to say that the provision in your policy by which it is placed in FULL IMMEDIATE BENEFIT is the most liberal provision that has ever been offered by any insurance company doing business in this state. This policy has been in force only since August 13, 1906, and still your company paid me in full $200, whereas if it had been taken out in any other company doing an industrial business I would have received only one half, or $100.

Again thanking you for your kindness and promptness in settling this claim and assuring you that whenever possible I will say a good word for the COMMONWEALTH.

Yours very truly
LETTITIA J. CLYNNE, Beneficiary.

Come up, gentlemen. Take your choice of weather. Rain, sleet, snow, or sunshine, and hot or cold. All served on short notice and they mostly work while you sleep. Wednesday we woke up to a snow scene this morning the dread sleet was given merging into a disagreeable rain. In between the two kinds of weather, the sun found an opportunity to shine and from cold yesterday morning it has changed to moderate today. Reports from every point above Kuttawa up to Louisville indicate six inches or more of snow. From Kuttawa down to Paducah and southward sleet and rain. At Princeton this morning the ground was covered with six inches of snow.

The river fell 0.5 in the last 24 hours leaving the stage at 14.1. Business at the wharf was fair. Arrivals were late from the weather. While on the way up the Tennessee river last night after a trip of ties, the Margaret lost a coil flat with 2,000 bushels of coal, and three barrels of oil. The barge sprung a leak when the boat was near the bridge where the Illinois Central crosses the river. Nothing could be done but to come back and the Margaret left today on a fresh trip. Efforts will be made to save the coal.

Because he preferred not to tell a lie on Washington's birthday, Hi Cosby, an employee of the dry docks, was subjected to a rest treatment by the other employees. Hi said he did not want to work yesterday, which was strictly the truth, and the others, who said they wanted to work, tied Hi to a flat boat and turned both loose in the river. Hi was caught at the Illinois Central incline and it cost Captain Taylor, the superintendent, $1.50 to get the flat boat back up the river. This morning Hi and the superintendent are arguing over who the joke was on.

The Dick Fowler cleared for Cairo this morning a little late from freight business.

The Parton should arrive tonight or Sunday from Chattanooga.

The Battorff will arrive tonight or Sunday night from Nashville and leave Monday at noon from Clarksville.

The Georgia Lee will arrive this afternoon from Memphis and the Peters Lee will arrive Sunday morning from Cincinnati for Memphis.

The Joe Fowler arrived late from Evansville today and left this afternoon on the return trip.

The Lyda will leave this evening or in the morning for the Tennessee river after ties.

MANY CASES OF RHEUMATISM

This Dread Disease Has Many Victims Here

Valuable Home Prescription Which Makes the Kidneys Take Out the Poisons.

REMOVES THE URIC ACID.

Thousands of men and women who have felt the sting and torture of this dread disease, which is no respecter of age, persons, sex, color or rank, will be interested to know that there for many years rheumatism was considered an incurable disease, now it is one of the easiest afflictions of the human body to conquer. Medical science has proven it not a distinct disease in itself, but a symptom caused by inactive kidneys. Rheumatism is uric acid in the blood and other waste products of the system which should be filtered and strained out in the form of urine. The function of the kidneys is to sift these poisons and acids out and keep the blood clean and pure. The kidneys, however, are a sponge-like substance, the holes or pores of which will sometimes, either from overwork or cold or exposure become clogged and inactive, and failing in their function of eliminating these poisons from the blood, they remain in the veins, decompose and settling about the joints and muscles, cause the untold suffering and pain of rheumatism and backache, often producing complications of bladder and urinary disease, weakness, etc.

The following simple prescription is said to relieve the worst cases of rheumatism because of its direct action upon the blood and kidneys, relieving, too, the most severe forms of bladder and urinary troubles: Fluid Extract of Dandelion, one-half ounce; Compound Kargon, one ounce; Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla, three ounces. Mix by shaking well in a bottle and take in teaspoonful doses after each meal and at bedtime. The ingredients can be had from any good prescription pharmacy, and being entirely vegetable, are absolutely harmless and safe to use at any time.

Distillers Leave Blenders.
Louisville, Ky., Feb. 22.—Local whiskey circles were stirred yesterday by the announcement that several of the largest Kentucky distillers of straight whiskeys had determined to sever all interests with the dealers in rectified whiskey, and that they would form an association to be known as the Kentucky Pure Food distillers' association for the conservation wholly of Kentucky.

As soon as the new association is organized which will be within the next thirty days, the distillers of the state who are now affiliated with the Kentucky Distillers' association will withdraw from membership in that organization. J. B. Thompson, of Harrodsburg, who has been active in the preliminary work of forming the new organization, said yesterday that he would call a meeting of the distillers to be held in Louisville in about two weeks' time, and that he thought a permanent organization could be effected within a short time afterward.

THEATRICAL NOTES

AT THE KENTUCKY.

Monday Night—Sousa's Opera, "Free Lance."

Tuesday Night—"The Vanderbilt Cup."

Wednesday Night—"Blue Beard."
Saturday Matinee and Night—"James Boys in Missouri."

James Boys.

A romantic melodrama entitled "The James Boys in Missouri," which will be presented in this city on Saturday, matinee and night, March 2, is one of the successes. Striking incidents based on the career of the famous Missouri bandits, have been woven into the play together with a pretty love story and some clever comedy. The life of the James boys is shown from the close of the civil war until the bullet fired by Bob Ford, ended the career of Jesse James. The famous "Blue Cut" train robbery which took place near Independence, Mo., is put on with wonderful stage effects. It is a most realistic stage picture.

The Free Lance.

The sale of seats began today for Klaw and Erlanger's presentation of the Sousa Opera company, with Joseph Cawthorn as the stellar feature in John Philip Sousa's latest and universally conceded, best comic opera composition "The Free Lance." The book and lyrics of "The Free Lance" are by Harry B. Smith and are said to be the best this prolific librettist has evolved since his great success of "Robin Hood." Though "The Free Lance" is a real comic opera, and one of the best that has been evolved by an American composer and librettist, and notwithstanding it tells a consistent and continuous story without any interludes or horse-play of musical comedy, it is said to be a constant source of jest and laughter from the start to the finish accompanied by the most stirring martial and catchy music that has ever been written by the "March King." In addition to Mr. Cawthorn such notable singers and comedians as Nella Bergen, Albert Hart, Jeanette Lowrie, George Tallman, Stanley Murphy and others of like calibre will be seen in the principal characters. A magnificent singing chorus of seventy accompany the production which is said to be one of the most elaborate and beautiful from the viewpoint of scenery and costume that has ever been presented in this city by Klaw and Erlanger. The cast and ensemble are similar in every detail to that which characterized the original production at the New Amsterdam theater, New York, last season.

"The Vanderbilt Cup."

A run of eight months at the Broadway theater, New York, and of three months at the Colonial, in Chicago, is the record of the new musical comedy, "The Vanderbilt Cup," which comes to the Kentucky theater Tuesday night.

The musical numbers promise to be unusually catchy and include "My Little Chaffeur," "My Houseboat Beau," "The Light That Lies in Girlish Eyes," and "Somewhere in the World."

The story is an up-to-the-minute portrayal of life among the smart automobile set—and hinges upon the great Vanderbilt cup race, which is run at Mineola, Long Island, every year by motorists from all over the world. The dialogue is said to be delightfully clever, and much satire is indulged in at the expense of those auto enthusiasts who rush about the continent in their costly touring car. Barney Oldfield's great idea the real motor race on the stage, is a "big" feature of the piece. Two 90-horse power racing machines running at high speed, crash on the stage, amid all the roar, dust, and excitement of a real race, and it is said audiences fairly get out of their chairs to see the finish.

Independent Managers Organize.
New York, Feb. 23.—The organization of independent theatrical managers, which has been taking form for some time, was effected today under the name Society of Independent Managers. The meeting was attended by nearly all the theatrical managers in New York not connected with the so-called theatrical trust. Officers for one year were elected as follows: President, Harrison Grey Fiske; vice president, Henry Miller; secretary and treasurer, Walter N. Lawrence. Directors, David Belasco, Lee Shubert, Walter N. Lawrence, Henry Miller and Harrison Grey Fiske.

Announcement...

MANAGER ROBERTS, with much pleasure, announces that Mr. Herbert L. Wallerstein, the young and brilliant composer and publisher—who has just recently put before the public five new compositions—has made arrangements with Manager Jos. M. Gailes, of the "Vanderbilt Cup" Company, to have two of these latest compositions sung by two of the principals of the above company, during the performance of "The Vanderbilt Cup," which will be seen at The Kentucky Tuesday evening, February 26.

Miss Alice Dovey, the charming soubrette, will sing "MISTER STAR," and Mr. David Andradra will sing "WHEN?" This will be the first time that either of these compositions have been sung in public.

Both Miss Dovey and Mr. Andradra have appeared on the stage of The Kentucky before. The former took the leading part in "The Land of Nod," while the latter was one of the principals in "The Babes in Toyland."

Earthquake Superstitions.

Scientists still study the cause and meaning of earthquakes, but, according to an exchange, uncivilized peoples long ago settled the questions involved to their own complete satisfaction. In Mongolia it is the breathings and skippings of a huge frog that cause the mischiefs; in China, a gigantic dragon; in India, a world bearing elephant; in Celebes, a hog; and in other countries the idea is varied by the introduction of a bull and a tortoise. Earthquakes in Siberia are believed to be due to the frolics of mammoths which live in the center of the earth, while in Vancouver Island it is the spirit of evil, with his marshalled hosts of all the wicked people who have ever lived.

There is really very little difficulty in finding an excuse for doing something that you want to do very bad.

The home laxative —should be safe

This one is. A good physic should always be kept in the house. Nearly every affliction to which the human body is heir, from a slight cold to a severe attack of liver or kidney trouble, is in a great degree due to improper bowel action and can be more quickly relieved and cured by cleansing the bowels than in any other manner.

The home remedy should be safe for all members of the family who may be required to use it. The average physic, such as the alleged mineral waters, which are nothing more or less than preparations of salts and carbonated water—similar to soda water—candied pellets and pills, will move the bowels, but in doing so they often leave the patient weak. No one should ever take a physic which makes him weak. If such a remedy is continued a terrible habit is created which will make it necessary that a physic be administered before the bowels can be induced to perform their functions.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin

is a safe remedy for the home. It is a stomach tonic which gives strength to the entire system and makes it possible for the bowels to act without further aid. It is so pleasant to take that children like it. It never causes pain or griping. All druggists sell Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin at 50 cents and $1.00 a bottle.

THE BEST COUNTRY.

I sorter like this country
When the spring is singin' sweet,
An' the violets in the valleys
Are a carpet for your feet.

II.
When you hear the birds a-singin',
All in gratitude for May,
An' the cattle bells are tinklin'
In a drowsy sort of way.

III.
But any kind o' season—
Wherever I may be,
It's still this country, brethren,
That fills the bill for me!

ANNOUNCEMENTS.

The Delphic Club will meet on Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock at the Carnegie library. The roll-call will be dispensed with and the members are asked to be present promptly.

The Matinee Musical Club will meet on Wednesday afternoon at the Parish House of Grace Episcopal church. It is the regular meeting postponed from February 20. The composers are Chaminade and Masse. Mrs. Victor Voris is the leader.

The Kalosophic Club will meet on Friday morning at 10 o'clock with Miss Kathleen Whitefield at her home, Kentucky Avenue and 7th street. The meetings for March will be with Miss Whitefield.

The Paducah High School Alumni association will meet on Friday afternoon at 4 o'clock at the High school auditorium on West Broadway. It is the regular time for the election of officers.

The Paducah chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution will meet on Friday afternoon with Mrs. D. G. Murrell on Broadway. The program will include a paper on the three societies, the Daughters of the Revolution, the Daughters of the American Revolution and the Colonial Dames by Mrs. H. S. Wells, and several readings.

Engagement Announced.

Mr. and Mrs. L. Rosenberg, of 752 W. Ninth street, Cincinnati, Ohio, announce the engagement of their daughter, Rosa, to Rabbi Meyer Lovitch of this city.

Dr. Lovitch is the rabbi of Temple Israel and is a young man of culture and prominence. He has been in Paducah only a few years, but has made a definite impress for good in his work. His fiancée belongs to a prominent Cincinnati family. The date for the wedding has not been announced.

Rabbi Lovitch is now in Cincinnati.

Box Party and Luncheon for Tuesday Night.

Mr. Herbert L. Wallerstein will give a box party at the Kentucky Tuesday evening, February 26, at the performance of the "Vanderbilt Cup," where two of his latest compositions "Mister Star" and "When?" will be sung by Miss Alice Dorey and Mr. David Abdrada. After the theater Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Wallerstein will entertain with a delightful luncheon at their home complimentary to Miss Alice Dorey. Mr. David Abdrada and Manager W. H. Pickens of the "Vanderbilt Cup" Co.

A Patriotic Week.

The week has been quiet socially. If the "first gentleman of America" had not had a birthday just at this time, there would have been little to mark it. As it is, even with no great rush of pleasing, there has been the tinge of patriotism in the air, mingled with the "America" sung by many voices in unison. Someway, with flags everywhere, and everyone seeing red, white and blue colors only, and hatching and cherry trees lying around, one cannot feel life is altogether monotonous. That the celebrations have been more quiet than usual is due, perhaps, to the Father of his Country having been an orthodox member of the Protestant Episcopal church and strict in his Lenten observances. He would have discouraged undue frivolity in his own honor at this season, doubtless.

Pretty Washington Birthday party.

Master Leonard Campbell was the host of a prettily planned Washington's birthday party on Friday evening from 8 to 11 o'clock at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wheeler Campbell, of Fountain avenue. It was a stag party entirely, except that the young host, who was dressed as George Washington, was assisted in receiving his guests by his sister, little Miss Louise Campbell and her friend, little Miss Edith Sherrill, both attired as Martha Washington.

The house was effectively decorated with flags and various pretty patriotic devices. The flags were arranged throughout the rooms on chains of red, white and blue paper, extending from the four corners to the center chandelier. The flowers used were red and white carnations. In the dining room the table was artistically set with a cover of white crepe paper decorated with flags. The centerpiece was a tiny growing cherry tree, with the traditional hatchet beside it. The place favors were flags, hatchets and other symbols appropriate to the day. The delicious refreshments were in keeping with the appointments of the decorations.

The young host wore a colonial suit of white and blue. The knickerbockers were solid white and the coat was white flowered with blue roses. A white wig, white stockings and black pumps completed the fascinating effect.

Little Misses Louise Campbell and Edith Sherrill were attired alike in pretty and quaint costumes of solid pink skirts, with pointed waists and puffers of canary color flounced in pink. Pink slippers and white wigs gave a charming completion. Many of the guests were powdered hair and dress.

The evening was pleasantly diversified with a number of delightful features and games. A donkey contest gave much enjoyment. A large can of sawdust contained many pretty and appropriate souvenirs, which the young guests enjoyed finding.

Entre Nous Club.

Miss Ethel Brooks was the hostess of the Entre Nous club on Thursday afternoon, entertaining very charmingly at her home on North 7th street. The red color motif was prettily emphasized in the decoration of the parlor, the tallies, and in the delightful course-luncheon served after the game. Only the club members and a few guests to fill club vacancies were present. The club prize a hand painted scarf, was won by Miss Little Mae Winstead. Mrs. Victor Voris captured the lone hand prize, a pretty set of beauty pins. The visitors' prize, a dainty gauze fan, went to Mrs. Allen Ashcraft. It is the last meeting of the club until after Lent.

Box Party in Honor of Visitors.

Complimentary to their house-guests, Col. and Mrs. James A. Rose, of Springfield, Ill., and Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Van Cleave of Springfield, Mr. and Mrs. James Peterson Smith gave a box party on Thursday evening at the Kentucky theater to see Harry Beresford in "The Woman Hater." The additional guests were Mr. and Mrs. Frank Rieke and Mr. A. S. Thompson. An elaborate luncheon was served after the play.

Patriotic Concert.

The Junior Epworth League of the Trimble street Methodist church gave an enjoyable concert of a patriotic nature on Friday evening at the church. The program was an excellent one and closed with "America," sung by all.

Colonial Tea.

A Colonial Tea was given in the lecture room of the Kentucky avenue Presbyterian church on Thursday evening that was a most pleasant occasion. Various familiar episodes of the Revolutionary War were presented in tableaux and a "Tour of the Nations" was a guessing contest. The prize for this was won by Miss Mary Lynn. Tea, wafers, coffee and sandwiches were served by girls in pretty colonial costumes. The room was decorated in patriotic colors.

George Washington Birthday Dance.

Mr. Roy Balowe entertained a number of guests with a dance on Thursday evening at the Red Men's Hall on North 4th street in honor of his friends, Messrs. Charles Seamon, John Callahan Al Hatch and James Polk who all have February 22 for their birthday in common with the Father of his country. It was an enjoyable event.

Baby Party.

Master Charles King, the little son of Mr. and Mrs. H. C. King, gave a birthday party on Monday afternoon at his home, 1026 Trimble street, in celebration of his first birthday. A number of small guests and grown-up ones were present and the occasion was greatly enjoyed.

Silver Wedding Celebrated.

Mr. and Mrs. William Lydon, of 422 South 10th street celebrated the 25th anniversary of their wedding on Wednesday evening at their home. If being Lent, the celebration was under a special dispensation of the Catholic church. It was a happy occasion with the silver anniversary feature prettily brought out. A number of family friends were present and many gifts in silver were received.

Colonial Cotillion.

The afternoon dancing class of Prof. J. A. Mahler, which consists of the younger children, gave a pretty colonial cotillion on Friday afternoon from 3 to 5:30 o'clock at the Eagles' hall at Broadway and Sixth street. It was danced by 35 children, all wore the powdered hair and many were in colonial attire. The hall presented a beautiful scene. There were a number of figures and the favors were flags, cherries hatchets and other pretty and appropriate emblems.

The 22nd in the Schools.

The pupils of the High school celebrated Thursday afternoon with an impromptu musical program that was very delightful. "America" was sung in closing. Those taking part were Mrs. George B. Hart, Mrs. Lela Wade Lewis, Miss Adah Brazelton, Mr. Curtis Polk of Vincennes, Ind.

At the McKinley school an elaborate program was rendered on Thursday afternoon. This celebrated the birthdays of George Washington, Abraham Lincoln, Henry W. Longfellow James Russell Lowell.

In Literary Clubdom.

There was no meeting of the Delphic club on Tuesday morning at the Carnegie library.

The Woman's club held the regular business meeting on Thursday afternoon at the Parish House of Grace Episcopal church. Only routine business was transacted.

The open meeting of the club will be held on March 7. It will be in charge of the Art department.

The Kalosophic club met on Friday morning with Miss Elizabeth Sinnott of North 9th street. It was a very delightful program, combining two weeks' meetings. The French Dramatists from the earliest beginning to modern times were discussed in four clever papers by Mrs. John Scott, Miss Katherine Powell, Miss Lula Reed, Miss Mary Scott, Mrs. Henry Rudy and Miss Clara Park presented "Current Topics."

Weddings.

A wedding of more than usual social interest but marked by a quiet simplicity in its solemnization was that of Miss Letitia Dallam Powell and Dr. William Wando Fitzpatrick of Paris, Texas, on Thursday morning at 10:30 o'clock in the parlors of the St. Francis de Sales Catholic church. The Rev. Father Jansen performed the ceremony which was witnessed by the family and a small coterie of intimate friends. The bride wore a pretty traveling costume of blue cloth and a house of Roman striped silk. She was attended by her sister, Miss Katherine Powell. After an informal reception bride's mother, Mrs. William W. and breakfast at the home of the Powell on West Broadway, Dr. and Mrs. Fitzpatrick left at 9:30 o'clock for St. Louis en route to their home in Texas.

The bride is one of the charming young society girls and belongs to one of the most prominent families in the state. Dr. Fitzpatrick is a leading physician of Paris. The wedding had been set for April but the late was set forward during Dr. Fitzpatrick's visit this week to his fiancée.

Miss Minnie Sanders and Mr. Thomas J. Lloyd of this city were married in Cairo on Tuesday afternoon at the Presbyterian parsonage, returning home that night. They are a popular young couple of the South Side. They were accompanied to Cairo by Miss Mabel Hughes and Mr. Gilbert Whitman.

ABOUT PEOPLE.

Miss Williametta Jones, who is spending the winter at Tampa, Florida, the guest of her uncle, Mr. Jones, and family, has been the recipient of much social distinction in the gay life of that winter pleasure city. She is a striking-looking girl with Titian hair and has attracted much notice in Tampa.

Miss Kate Kortz, of Owensboro, Ky., who has been the popular guest of the Misses Larkin of South Sixth street, left Friday for Jackson, Tenn., where she will visit her brother, Mr. Jacob Kortz.

Mr. Oscar B. Jones, of San Bernardino, Cal., whose marriage to Miss Kate Richardson of this city, will take place on March 5, will arrive Sunday and will be the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Paul E. Stutz, of Jefferson street. Mr. Jones is a former Paducah boy, and has many friends here to welcome him.

Col. and Mrs. James A. Rose and Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Van Cleave, of Springfield, Ill., returned home on Thursday after a pleasant visit to Mr. and Mrs. James P. Smith, of Washington street.

Mr. and Mrs. William T. Gould, of New York, who have been the guests for several days of Mrs. Elbridge Palmer and Miss Frances Gould at The Ferns, left on Wednesday for California to visit Mrs. Gould's father.

Mrs. Robert Carroll and daughter, Miss Helene Carroll, of St. Louis, are expected next week to attend the marriage of Miss Kate Richardson to Mr. Oscar B. Jones, of California. Mrs. Carroll was formerly Miss Emma Kay, of Paducah and is a cousin of Miss Richardson.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward H. Bringhurst arrived home Friday from a delightful bride's trip which included New Orleans, the Gulf cities, Cuba and points in Florida. They stopped in Clarksville, Tenn., to visit Mr. Bringhurst's family, en route to Paducah.

Miss Cora Belle Underwood, of Owensboro, will arrive next Saturday to visit the Misses Richardson of South 3rd street and attend the Richardson-Jones wedding. Mrs. Joe Altman of Calmar and Mr. Frank Hecker of St. Louis, are other guests expected for the wedding.

Miss Grace Williams, of Nashville, Tenn., who has on several occasions visited her cousin, Mrs. Samuel T. Hubbard of this city, and is pleasantly remembered by many, is on the Montague program this summer and will give a number of the "stories" that she tells so cleverly and with such charming effect.

Mr. Richard Scott returned this week from Helena, Ark., where he attended the wedding of Mr. A. S. Burdette of St. Louis and Miss Lela March, of Helena. It was an elaborate church affair. Mr. Scott was one of the wedding party and sang "Because" before the ceremony. Mr. Burdette is well known in Paducah and is expected here next week with his bride.

Dr. Edward Mims, professor of literature and history at Trinity College, Durham, N. C., will deliver a series of lectures at the Montague assembly this summer, and will go later to the Western Chautauqua at Boulder, Col. to lecture. He with Mrs. Mims and children will come to Paducah from Montague to visit Mrs. Mims' mother, Mrs. T. H. Puryear, at 944 Jefferson street. Dr. Mims' lectures are along literary interpretative lines where he is especially fine.

The Comte Vincent de Missiney, of St. Pierre Martinique, France, but now living in Chicago, was the guest on Monday of Dr. and Mrs. Victor Voris at their home on West Broadway. Comte de Missiney is representing his extensive vineyards of France in this country and married Miss Marie Garrea of St. Louis, the niece of Mrs. Annette Cheney of St. Louis. He is a delightful man socially, and was met by many friends of Dr. and Mrs. Voris. The dinner party they had intended giving in his honor on Monday evening was called in after the death of Mrs. Bertie Fowler Campbell last week.

The Misses Rieke who sailed on February 9 for Europe, have called their safe arrival at Naples. The plan of their tour has been somewhat changed since leaving. They will go direct from Naples to Egypt and make the Egyptian trip first, returning by Spain to Italy.

Carrots for the Complexion.

It's a dull day when a new fad in food isn't thrust upon a long-suffering world, and the latest is carrot eating. If a woman would have a clear, fresh complexion, says the theorist responsible for the idea, she must eat a raw carrot every day. He's no vegetarian, so he doesn't forbid the eating of meat, though he does condemn the eating of "certain of the messes called food." In a school just outside Boston, which is noted for its pretty girls, the pupils are expected to eat a carrot daily. Just as they might eat an orange or an apple and they don't make the slightest protest, either. But then, what woman wouldn't suffer to be beautiful?—New York Press.

Why people are thin

There Are Four Reasons

- (1) Those who cannot digest starch.
- (2) Those who cannot digest fats.
- (3) Those with good appetites, but cannot assimilate what they eat.
- (4) Those who have no appetite and cannot eat.

Peptol, the wonderful new FOOD remedy overcomes the difficulty in each of these four cases. It adds flesh at the rate of from two to seven pounds a week. It looks and tastes like honey. Makes a most delicious finish to a meal.

Daily Thought.

"A name counts for nothing where character is the commodity demanded."

DUTY OF CITIZENSHIP.

What more useful citizen can one imagine than an "ex-president"? Having received the highest honor possible in this republic, his ambition is satisfied, his social position is secure, his salary has assured him, or should have assured him, a modest competence, and the very altitude of his position rather prohibits his engaging in any occupation, the ultimate object of which is gain. He is the one great philosopher of the republic.

He is the one man, whose experience in citizenship has placed him above the plane of prejudice and given him

the unobscured view of national affairs. When he speaks we may listen as to one who speaks without fear or prejudice, one who has nothing to gain but the increased respect of his countrymen, nothing to lose but their confidence. The question is asked, what shall we do with our ex-presidents? The answer is, let them accumulate and live as long as possible. One could imagine no more perfect institution than a government composed of ex-presidents.

Grover Cleveland, who has lived the life of a recluse, while his party turned the circuit of a decade, and came back to him, performed one of those patriotic duties of an ex-president when he made the Washington's birthday speech before the Union League club of Chicago, last night. "The country that lives is us," as distinguished from the country in which we live, was the theme of his discourse. He addressed the individual citizens, demanding of them serious consideration and patriotic action. He is right, the country dwells in the hearts of its citizens.

The will of the people is supreme,

when that will is exerted. The acquiescence of the people is all that permits evil to flourish. Cleveland's admonition is for each citizen to do his appointed duty, in the home, in the jury box, in the tax collector's office, in the convention, in the election booth or on the field. When all do that, there is no danger for the country.

"New York will be a fine town when they get it finished," says the comedian. This bit of sarcasm is apropos of any growing city, where buildings are torn down and replaced, streets torn up and re-laid, and improvements constantly impeding traffic. But the growth of New York is marvelous. Some three years ago the subway plan was put into execution, and the promoters of the project announced that they would solve the transportation problem by putting needed cars underground, because there was no more room on top of Manhattan Isle. The people rejoiced. The subway is finished and in perfect operation. What is the result? The subway cars are crowded to their capacity, while the congestion of surface and overhead traffic is as bad as ever. And, yet, transportation experts estimated that the answer is easy—New York City has actually grown so fast that the subway only takes care of the increase in suburban population since the work was started. Of course, the movement to the suburbs was accelerated by the subway project, but the growth of the coming world's metropolis is astounding.

Recent numerous and horrifying disasters in the operations of fast trains indicate that railroad men in their efforts to annihilate time have succeeded only in demonstrating that the end of the time is the beginning of eternity.

ACTION WILL BE TAKEN.

The meeting called at the city hall, Saturday, for the purpose of discussing the good roads question was largely attended. It was perhaps the most enthusiastic gathering of farmers and business men ever assembled in Fulton. U. S. Shacklett, president of the Fulton Commercial club, in a brief, but pointed address, opened the meeting, after which stirring speeches were made on good roads by Hon. H. T. Smith, Judge Herbert Carr, Hon. Ed Thomas, ex-Mayor J. F. Fall and Mr. A. M. Wilson. A number of visitors from adjoining counties, who were equally interested, also expressed themselves as being heartily in favor of good roads. While no definite action was taken it was generally understood that a vote would be recommended of $250,000 or $300,000 bonds. The fiscal court will take up the matter at an early date, as was announced by Mr. Browder Saturday.

The country is thoroughly aroused over the question and the slogan today is for good roads. Another meeting has been called for the farmers to meet with the Fulton Commercial club on Saturday, February 23, at the city hall.—Fulton Leader.

aging intercollegiate sport. As I emphatically disbelieve in seeing Harvard or any other college turn out mollycoddles instead of vigorous men, I may add that I do not in the least object to a sport because it is rough. Rowing, baseball, la crosse, track and field games, hockey, football are all of them good. Moreover, it is to my mind simple nonsense, a mere confession of weakness, to desire to abolish a game because tendencies show themselves, or practices grow up, which prove that the game ought to be reformed. Take football, for instance. The preparatory schools are able to keep football clean and to develop the right spirit in the players without the slightest necessity ever arising to so much as consider the question of abolishing it. There is no excuse whatever for colleges failing to show the same capacity, and there is no real need for considering the question of the abolition of the game. If necessary, let the college authorities interfere to stop any excess or perversion, making their interference as little obnoxious as possible, and yet as rigorous as is necessary to achieve the end. But there is no justification for stopping a thoroughly manly sport because it is sometimes abused, when the experience of every good preparatory school shows that the abuse is in no shape necessarily attendant upon the game.

For Athletics.

We can not afford to turn out of college men who shrink from physical effort or from a little physical pain. In any republic courage is a prime necessity for the average citizen if he is to be a good citizen; and he needs physical courage no less than moral courage, the courage that dares as well as the courage that endures, the courage that will fight valiantly alike against the foes of the soul and the foes of the body. Athletics are good, especially in their rougher forms, because they tend to develop such courage. They are good also because they encourage a true democratic spirit; for in the athletic field the man must be judged not with reference to outside and accidental attributes, but to that combination of bodily vigor and moral quality which go to make up prowess.

I trust I need not add that in defending athletics I would not for one moment be understood as excusing that perversion of athletics which would make it the end of life instead of merely a means in life. It is first-class healthful play, and is useful as such. But play is not business, and it is a very poor business indeed for a college man to learn nothing but sport. There are exceptional cases which I do not need to consider; but disregarding these, I can not with sufficient emphasis say that when you get through college you will do badly unless you turn your attention to the serious work of life with a devotion which will render it impossible for you to pay much heed to sport in the way in which it is perfectly proper for you to pay heed while in college. Play is not only his right so to do, but his duty; his duty both to the nation and to himself. Each should feel that if he fails in this, he is not only failing in his duty but is showing himself in a contemptible light. A man may neglect his political duties because he is too lazy, too selfish, too shortsighted, or too timid; but whatever the reason may be it is certainly an unworthy reason, and it shows either a weakness or worse than a weakness in the man's character. Above all, you college men, remember that if your education, the pleasant lives you lead, make you too fastidious, too sensitive to take part in the rough hurlyburly of the actual work of the world, if you become so overcultivated so overrefined that you can not do the hard work of practical politics, then you had better never have been educated at all. The weakling and the coward are out of place in a strong and free community. In a republic like ours the governing class is composed of the strong men who take the trouble to do the work of government; and if you are too timid or too fastidious or too careless to do your part in this work, then you forfeit your right to be considered one of the governing and you become one of the governed instead—one of the driven cattle of the political arena. I want you to feel that it is not merely your right to take part in politics, not merely your duty to the state, but that it is demanded by your own self-respect, unless you are content to acknowledge that you are unfit to govern yourself and have to submit to the rule of somebody else as a master—and this is what it means if you do not do your own part in government.

A word also to the students. Athletics are good; study is even better; and best of all is the development of the type of character for the lack of which, in an individual as in a nation, no amount of brilliancy of mind or of strength of body will atone. Harvard must do more than produce students; yet, after all, she will fall immeasurably short of her duty and her opportunity unless she produces a great number of true scholars. Moreover, let the students remember that in the long run in the field of study judgment must be rendered upon the quantity of first-class work produced in the way of productive scholarship, and that no amount of second-class work can atone for failure in the college to produce this first-class work. A course of study is of little worth if it tends to deaden individual initiative and cramp scholars so that they only work in the ruts worn deep by many predecessors. American scholarship will be judged, not by the quantity of routine work produced by routine workers, but by the small amount of first-class output of those who in whatever branch, stand in the first rank. No industry in compilation and in combination will ever take the place of this first-hand original work, this productive and creative work, whether in science, in art, in literature. The greatest special function of a college, as distinguished from its general function of producing good citizenship, should be so to shape conditions as to put a premium upon the development of productive scholarship, of the creative mind, in any form of intellectual work. The men whose chief concern lies with the work of the student in study, should bear this fact ever before them.

College Man's Duty.

So much for what I have to say to you purely as Harvard men. Now, a word which applies to you merely as it applies to all college men, to all men in this country who have received the benefits of a college education; and what I have to say on this topic can properly be said under the auspices of your Political club. You here when you graduate will take up many different kinds of work; but there is one work in which all of you should take part simply as good American citizens, and that is the work of self-government. Remember, in the first place, that to take part in the work of government does not in the least mean of necessity to hold office. It means to take an intelligent, disinterested and practical part in the everyday duties of the average citizen, of the citizen who is not a faddist or a doctrinaire, but who abhors corruption and dislikes inefficiency; who wishes to see decent government prevail at home, with genuine equality of opportunity for all men so far as it can be brought about; and who wishes, as far as foreign matters are concerned, to see this nation treat all other nations, great and small, with respect, and if need be with generosity, and at the same time show herself able to protect herself by her own might from any wrong at the hands of any outside power.

Each man here should feel that he has no excuse, as a citizen in a democratic republic like ours, if he fails to do his part in the government. It is not only his right so to do, but his duty; his duty both to the nation and to himself. Each should feel that if he fails in this, he is not only failing in his duty but is showing himself in a contemptible light. A man may neglect his political duties because he is too lazy, too selfish, too shortsighted, or too timid; but whatever the reason may be it is certainly an unworthy reason, and it shows either a weakness or worse than a weakness in the man's character. Above all, you college men, remember that if your education, the pleasant lives you lead, make you too fastidious, too sensitive to take part in the rough hurlyburly of the actual work of the world, if you become so overcultivated so overrefined that you can not do the hard work of practical politics, then you had better never have been educated at all. The weakling and the coward are out of place in a strong and free community. In a republic like ours the governing class is composed of the strong men who take the trouble to do the work of government; and if you are too timid or too fastidious or too careless to do your part in this work, then you forfeit your right to be considered one of the governing and you become one of the governed instead—one of the driven cattle of the political arena. I want you to feel that it is not merely your right to take part in politics, not merely your duty to the state, but that it is demanded by your own self-respect, unless you are content to acknowledge that you are unfit to govern yourself and have to submit to the rule of somebody else as a master—and this is what it means if you do not do your own part in government.

Value of Education.

Like most other things of value, education is good only in so far as it is used aright, and if it is misused or if it causes the owner to be so puffed up with pride as to make him misestimate the relative values of things it becomes a harm and not a benefit. There are few things less desirable than the arid cultivation, the learning and refinement which lead merely to that intellectual conceit which makes a man in a democratic community like ours hold himself aloof from his fellows and pride himself upon the weakness which he mistakes for supercilious strength. Small is the use of those educated men who in after life meet no one but themselves, and gather in parlors to discuss wrong conditions which they do not understand and to advocate remedies which have the prime defect of being unworkable. The judgment on practical affairs, political and social, of educated men who keep aloof from the conditions of practical life is apt to be valueless to those other men who do refuse wage effective war against the forces of baseness and of evil. From the political standpoint education is a harm and not a benefit to the men whom it serves as an excuse for refusing to mingle with their fellows and for standing aloof from the broad sweep of our national life in a curiously impotent spirit of fancied superiority. The political wrongheadedness of such men is quite as great as that of wholly uneducated men; and no people could be less trustworthy as critics and advisors. The educated man who seeks to console himself for his own lack of the robust qualities necessary to bring success in American politics by moaning over the degeneracy of the times instead of trying to better them, by railing at the men who do the actual work of political life instead of trying himself to do the work, is a poor creature, and so far as his feeble powers avail, is a damage and not a help to the country. You may come far short of this disagreeable standard and still be a rather useless member of society. Your education, your cultivation, will not help you if you make the mistake of thinking that it is a substitute for instead of an addition to those qualities which in the struggle of life bring success to the ordinary man without your advantages. Your college training confers no privilege upon you save as tested by the use you make of it. It puts upon you the obligation to show yourself better able to do certain things than your fellows who have not had your advantages. If it has served merely to make you believe that you are to be excused from effort in after life, that you are to be excused from contact with the actual world of men and events, then it will prove a curse and not a blessing. If on the other hand you treat your education as a weapon the more in your hands, a weapon to fit you to do better in the hard struggle of effort, and not as excusing you in any way from taking part in practical fashion in that struggle then it will be a benefit to you.

On Citizenship.

Let each of you college men remember in after life that in the fundamentals he is very much like his fellows who have not been to college, and that if he is to achieve results, instead of confining himself exclusively to disparagement of other men who have achieved them, he must manage to come to some kind of working agreement with these fellows of his. There are times of course when it may be the highest duty of a citizen to stand alone or practically alone. But if this is a man's normal attitude—if normally he is unable to work in combination with a considerable body of his fellows—it is safe to set him down as unfit for useful service in a democracy. In popular government results worth having can only be achieved by men who combine worthy ideals with practical good sense; who are resolute to accomplish good purposes, but who can accommodate themselves to the give and take necessary where work has to be done, as almost all important work must necessarily be done, by combination. Moreover, remember that normally the prime object of political life should be to achieve results and not merely to issue manifestoes—save of course where the issuance of such manifestoes helps to achieve the results. It is a very bad thing to be morally cautious, for moral cautiousness is disease. But inflammation of the conscience may be just as unhealthy so far as the public is concerned, and if a man's conscience is always telling him to do something foolish, he will do well to mistrust its workings. The religious man who is not useful is not he whose sole care is to save his own soul, but the man whose religion bids him strive to advance decency and clean living and to make the world a better place for his fellows to live in, and all this is just as true of the ordinary citizen in the performance of the ordinary duties of political life.

During the last few years much good has been done to the people of the Philippines; but this has been done, not by those who merely indulged in the personal luxury of advocating for the islands a doctrinaire liberty which would have meant their immediate and irretrievable ruin, but by those who have faced facts as they actually were, remembering the proverb that teaches us in the long run even the most uncomfortable truth is a safer companion than the pleasantest falsehood. It is these men, the men who with short-comings and stumblings yet did their duty of the moment, though that duty was hard and often disagreeable, and not the men who confined themselves to idle talk of no matter how high-sounding a nature, who have done real good to the islands. These are the men who have brought justice as between man and man; who are building roads; who have introduced schools; who, gradually, with patience and firmness, are really fitting the islanders for self-government.

Corporate Control.

So it is with the great questions which group themselves around the control of corporations in the interest of the public. There has been a curious revival of the doctrine of state rights in connection with these questions, by the people who know that the state can not with justice to both sides practically control the corporations, and who therefore advocate such control because they do not venture to express their real wish, which is that there shall be no control at all. Honest and fair dealing railway corporations will gain and not lose by adequate federal control. But those who invoke the doctrine of state rights to protect state corporate creations in predatory activities extended through other states are as short-sighted as those who once invoked the same doctrine to protect the special slaveholding interest. The states have shown that they have not the ability to curb the power of syndicated wealth, and, therefore, in the interest of the people, it must be done by national action. Our present warfare is against special privilege. The men—many of them, I am sorry to say, college men—who are prompt to speak against every practical means which can be devised for achieving the object we have in view—the proper and adequate supervision by the federal government of the great corporations doing an interstate business—are nevertheless, themselves powerless to so much as outline any plan of constructive statesmanship which shall give relief. I have watched for six years these men, but those in public and those in private life, and though they are prompt to criticize every affirmative step taken, I have yet to see one of them lift a finger to remedy the wrongs that exist. So it is in every field of public activity. States' rights should be preserved when they mean the people's rights; but not when they mean the people's wrongs; not, for instance, when they are invoked to prevent the abolition of child labor, or to break the force of the laws which prohibit the importation of contract labor to this country; in short, not when they stand for wrong or oppression of any kind or for national weakness or impotence at home or abroad. It is to the men who work in practical fashion with their fellows, and not to those who, whether because they are impractical or incapable, can not thus work, that we owe what success we have had in dealing with every problem which we have either solved or started on the path of solution during the last decade.

The last ten years have been years of great achievement for this nation. During that period we have dealt and are dealing with many different matters of great moment. We have acquired the right to build, and are now building, the Panama canal. We have given wise government to the Philippines. We have dealt with exceedingly complex, difficult, and important questions in Cuba and Santo Domingo. We have built up the navy; our surest safeguard of peace and of national honor. We are making great progress in dealing with the questions of irrigation and forestry, of preserving to the public the rightful use of the public lands and of the mineral wealth underlying them; and with that group of vital questions which concern the proper supervision of the immense corporations doing an interstate business, the proper control of the great highways of interstate commerce, the proper regulation of industries which, if left unregulated, threaten disaster to the body politic. We have done many other things, such as securing the settlement of the Alaska boundary. We have made progress in securing better relations between capital and labor; justice as between them and as between the general public.

What Osteopathy Will Do.

There are but few people who have not heard of Osteopathy, also of some of its achievements. But there are far too many who have accredited it with being good for only those conditions from which they have been cured, or which have come under their observation. Not infrequently there is mutual surprise when one who was cured of rheumatism meets another who has been cured of asthma or constipation. This is a homely, but very true illustration. Personally, I have cured chronic cases of constipation, rheumatism, asthma, nervousness, neuralgia and headaches for people whom you know well, and the value of the Osteopathic treatment is but coming generally known in Paducah, as it should be.

I should like to talk with you at any time about your particular case, and know I can cite you to some of your friends who will attest to what the treatment has done for them in similar diseases. Come to my office, 516 Broadway, or phone 1407 any time from 9 to 12 or 2 to 5 p. m.

Hot Springs, Ark., Feb. 23.—Bishop Edward Fitzgerald, Roman Catholic bishop of Little Rock diocese, died at St. Joseph's Infirmary tonight, aged 74 years.

Bishop Fitzgerald had been in charge of the Little Rock diocese since 1867. Born at Limerick, Ireland, in 1833, he came to the United States in 1849, and a year later entered the College of the Barrens, in Missouri. He finished his ecclesiastical studies in Mount St. Mary's College, Emmetsburg, Md., and was ordained a priest in 1857. He was pastor of a church at Columbus, O., until 1867, when he was ordained a bishop.

TO END HEREDITARY PEERAGES

Bill Proposing Reconstitution of the House of Lords Introduced.

London, Feb. 23.—In the house of lords today Lord Newton introduced his bill proposing the reconstitution of the house on a partly elective basis. He seeks to remove the excessive preponderance of hereditary peers by stipulating qualification through service to the state or previous election, and provides for a certain number of elected peers and for the nomination by the crown of life peers, these not to exceed 100 in number.

I. C. MAN DROWNS.

Memphis, Tenn., Feb. 23.—While hunting on Menasha Lake, Menasha, Ark., twenty miles from Memphis, W. L. Smith, general agent for the Illinois Central, having charge of the territory south of the Ohio, and personal represent of President J. T. Harahan, succeeding Major Michael Gilles, third vice president, resigned, and McClelland Smith, the thirteen-year-old son, were drowned at 7:30 o'clock this morning. The bodies have not been found.

ASYLUM ATTENDANTS INDICTED FOR MURDER.

Athens, Ohio, Feb. 23.—The grand jury today indicted C. W. Bobo, Henry Harkins and Herbert Raider, former attendants at the Athens asylum for the insane for second degree murder. The charge was killing W. J. Banas, an inmate. W. J. Blackburn, an attendant was indicted for assault and battery.

MAYOR WORE OUT CANE ON BACK OF TROOPER.

El Paso, Tex., Feb. 23.—Drunken negro soldiers threatened to shoot up the town last night. Mayor Davis ordered the arrest of the disturbing negroes. When a sergeant attempted to interfere the mayor wore out his walking cane on him. This settled the disturbance.

TOBACCO FAIR.

Mayville, Ky., Feb. 23.—Annual tobacco fair opened today with an immense display of samples of tobacco, wheat, corn and potatoes. Several addresses were made by prominent men and awards will be made for the best samples.

STEAMER WRECKED AND 130 CHINAMEN DROWNED.

IN THE COURTS

Circuit Court.

In circuit court this morning the following judgments were entered:

A judgment for $1,500 was awarded the plaintiff in the case of Margie Overstreet against the Ancient Order of United Workmen.

G. D. Palmer, guardian, was directed to invest $2,000 of his ward's money in bank stock in the case of G. D. Palmer against Gertrude Palmer.

Judgment was entered, ordering a distribution in the case of Mary Allison against Lo'a Mankin, et al.

F. G. Rudolph, administrator, against Mrs. Bertie Wilber, distribution ordered.

Judgment was entered setting aside former allowance of $200, alimony in the case of Maggie E. Davis against C. J. Davis, and $25 was allowed.

W. B. Flournoy against J. E. Flournoy, judgment entered ordering distribution of land.

G. G. Brown against Casper Jones, judgment entered ordering sale of property.

W. A. Gardner against Jessie Ware, judgment entered ordering sale.

New Suits.

Columbus Greer, a coal tender at the Illinois Central shops, sued through his attorneys Campbell & Campbell for $2,000 damage done to him by an electric shock on the turn table in the yards. He alleges that the foreman told him there was no current in the apparatus of the turn table and that through an iron bar he was using he received a shock, which tore loose some muscles and ligaments and injured one lung, permanently disabling him from manual labor. The accident occurred January 18, 1907.

Bankruptcy.

Referee Bagby filed an order this morning in the bankruptcy case of N. J. Gosset, sustaining the exceptions to the trustee's report ordering a sale.

Deeds Filed.

M. H. Gallagher and wife to Adolph Weil, property in the city, $1 and other considerations.

In Police Court.

Police court was brief this morning despite the fact that yesterday was a holiday. Only three cases came before Judge Cross and they required little time to clear up.

William Gregory, white, was fined $1 and costs for being drunk.

Bailey Puckett, white, for carrying concealed a deadly weapon, was fined $25 and given ten days in jail.

Tom Trimble, colored, an employee of the New Richmond House, was arrested for failure to support his child. His case was continued to February 25.

Judge Cross issued warrants this morning for Frank Lee and Joe Kratsinger, white men who engaged in a fight in front of the Tennessee house on Kentucky avenue near Second street this morning. One flourished a knife. Detective Baker arrested the men and their case will be heard Monday morning.

Hiram Higgins' Gait.

At a recent gathering in Baltimore, two men from different sections of the country were discussing the capabilities of "nervous, restless Americans" for being slow and deliberate. The Marylander claimed the palm for slowness for the inhabitants of the eastern shore of the state.

"It is a saying hereabouts," said he, "that if oysters had been created in rearing furnished rooms, or kept with legs, the people of the eastern shore would all have starved to death."

"The folks around Mount Monadnock have a saying that beats yours," remarked a Vermont man. "Of one billies of 'nervous, restless Americans' up there it used to be observed that if you were to give Hiram Higgins forty yards start, stock still, the palm for slowness for the inhabitants of the eastern shore of the state would catch him."—Harper's Weekly.

FOUR CORNERED

WILL BE STRUGGLE BETWEEN CENTRAL AMERICAN STATES.

Guatemala and Salvador Will Become Involved in Present War Before It Ends.

City of Mexico, Feb. 23.—"War is an actual condition in Central America," said Under Secretary of State Algera last night.

"We have received a message from the Mexican consul general at Tegucigalpa, Honduras, which says: 'Minister of Foreign Affairs Cullen declared against Nicaragua. President Bonilla is now at the head of the Honduran troops and marching to the frontier to meet the forces of President Zee'ara.'"

Salvador to Take a Hand. In response to questions as to the attitude of Salvador in the struggle, Secretary Algera said he has received information that this republic would become involved as an ally of Honduras he admitted that the department had received telegrams corroborating this.

A high state official said: "Most Serious of All. You may state that this upheaval will perhaps be the most formidable that has ever occurred in Central America. At first it will be Honduras and Salvador against Nicaragua, but from information we have obtained we know Guatemala will be the ally of Nicaragua. Whether the aid of President Cabrera's country will be open or secret, we do not yet know."

Making the Best of It.

"I'm dreadfully sorry to learn that you will be at the foot of your class this spring, Gladys." "Oh, it is all for the best! My graduating dress will have a train, and so no one will step on it when we are marching on and off the stage at commencement."—Chicago Tribune.

LAUD ROOSEVELT AND FORAKER Ohio Republican Clubs Commend the President for "Square Deal."

Cincinnati, Feb. 23.—The twenty-second annual state convention of Ohio Republican clubs here today adopted resolutions commending President Roosevelt for "his strenuous efforts for the square deal."

"In these efforts," the resolutions say, he was "ably supported by Ohio's distinguished son, William H. Taft." Senators Foraker and Dick were commended for the positions they have held in shaping the wise legislation of Republican congresses. Senator Foraker was given this special mention:

"We recognize that the able and fearless statesmanship of our senior senator, Hon. Joseph B. Foraker, has made Ohio foremost among the states of the Union."

TWO CENT FARE

Is Now a Certainty in the State of Illinois.

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 23.—Hopes of the railroads that they would be able to halt 2-cent a mile legislation in the senate were dashed last night by the information that the upper house would pass the bill promptly. Today's rapid-fire action in the house, where a committee bill was reported out of the committee on railroads and advanced to second reading without objection, was accepted as indicating the temper in this general assembly. This bill will come up on second hearing next Tuesday, will be sent to third reading and passed on Wednesday, when the scene of action will be transferred to the senate.

REPUBLICANS WIN

NO ELECTION FOR COUNCILMEN HELD IN PRINCETON.

Corrupt Agreement Between Democrats and Negroes Invalidates Vote Last Fall.

Frankfort, Ky., Feb. 23.—The court of appeals, by Judge Barker, the whole court sitting, Judge Nunn dissenting, reversed the Caldwell circuit court and John G. Orr, etc., vs. J. U. Kevill, etc.

Appellants were the Republican candidates for councilmen in Princeton at the November election, 1905, and the appellees the Democratic candidates.

The Democrats on the face of the returns received a majority of 34 votes, carrying all the precincts except No. 2. In this precinct it was alleged that 18 votes had been voted with a double stamp and that in carrying out a corrupt agreement negroes of a so-called "Independent club" had voted the Democratic for pay.

There were twenty-six votes, three of which were opened and found to be Republican votes which the clerk failed to sign. This court holds these votes should have been counted. The court says on the vital point in the question: "Upon this showing it is clear that appellees are not entitled to a judgment, declaring them elected to the offices." This court reversed the judgment of the lower court and directs it to declare the election void and offices vacant.

A SQUARE DEAL

Is assured you when you buy one of Dr. Pierce's Family Medicines—for all the ingredients entering into them are printed on the bottle-wrappers and their formula are attested under oath as being complete and correct. You know just what you are paying for and that the ingredients are gathered from Nature's laboratory, being selected from the most valuable native, medicinal roots found growing in our American forests. While potent to cure they are perfectly harmless even to the most delicate women and children.

Not a drop of alcohol enters into their composition. A much better agent is used both for extracting and preserving the medicinal principles used in them, viz.—pure triple-refined glycerine of proper strength. This agent possesses intrinsic medicinal properties of its own, being a most valuable anti-septic and anti-ferment, nutritive and soothing demulcent.

Glycerine plays an important part in Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery in the cure of indigestion, dyspepsia and weak stomach, attended by sour risings, "heartburn," foul breath, coated tongue, poor appetite, gnawing feeling in stomach, biliousness and kindred derangements of the stomach, liver and bowels.

Besides curing all the above distressing ailments, the "Golden Medical Discovery" is a specific for all diseases of the mucous membranes, as catarrh, whether of the nasal passages or of the stomach, bowels or pelvic organs. Even in its ulcerative stages it will yield to this sovereign remedy if its use be persevered in. In Chronic Catarrh of the Nasal passages, it is well, while taking the "Golden Medical Discovery" for the necessary constitutional treatment, to cleanse the passages freely two or three times a day with Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy. This thorough course of treatment generally cures even in the worst cases.

In coughs and hoarseness caused by bronchial, throat and lung affections, except consumption in its advanced stages, the "Golden Medical Discovery" is a most efficient remedy, especially in those obstinate, hang-on-coughs caused by irritation and congestion of the bronchial mucous membranes. The "Discovery" is not so good for acute coughs arising from sudden colds, nor must it be expected to cure consumption in its advanced stages—no medicine will do that—but for all the obstinate hang-on, or chronic coughs, which, if neglected, or badly treated, lead up to consumption, it is the best medicine that can be taken.

If the sweet taste of the "Discovery," caused by the glycerine, is disliked, a few drops of lemon juice, orange or lime juice, added to each dose will make it agreeable and pleasant and will not in the slightest interfere with its beneficial effects.

It's an insult to your intelligence for a dealer to endeavor to palm off upon you some nostrum of unknown composition in place of Dr. Pierce's world-famed medicines which are of known composition. Most dealers recommend Dr. Pierce's medicines because they know what they are made of and that the ingredients employed are among the most valuable that a medicine for like purposes can be made of. The same is true of leading physicians who do not hesitate to recommend them, since they know exactly what they contain and that their ingredients are the very best known to medical science for the cure of the several diseases for which these medicines are recommended.

With tricky dealers it is different. Something else that pays them a little greater profit will be urged upon you as "just as good," or even better. You can hardly afford to accept a substitute of unknown composition and without any particular record of cures in place of Dr. Pierce's medicines which are of known composition and have a record of forty years of cures behind them. You know what you want and it is the dealer's business to supply that want. Insist upon it.

Chairman Tawney Produces a Long Array of Figures That Are Startling.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 23.—Chairman Tawney of the house appropriations committee created consternation on the floor when during the discussion of the sundry civil bill, he asserted that the present congress has exceeded the appropriations of any congress in history. Mr. Tawney began the general debate by a statement of the provisions of the budget, which carries $104,000,000 in round numbers. He then said that a rough estimate of the appropriations already made and to be made, showed that this last session of the Fifty-ninth congress would amount up to $1,005,244,468, the largest by many millions of any session of the congress. He said that if the revenues in the next year did not increase over those of the present year the treasury of the United States was facing a deficit of $100,000,000 at the close of the fiscal year 1908.

A Rubber Sidewalk.
The story is told on an Iowa man who patented a rubber sidewalk. After much lobbying with his friends among the Town Council, he was allowed to put down several yards of it as an experiment. As a noise absorber it proved most effective, and the early demonstrations seemed to be living down all skepticism in regard to its rapidity that the inventor's fortune was all but made. Then the inventor made a fatal blunder. To show how solid and strong it was he began jumping up and down on it with his whole weight. The walk could not forget that it was still rubber and when the ambitious inventor planked his heels in it he was promptly pitched over the fence into a briar patch. The episode proved such a joke that the budding popularity of the new idea began to wane, and there are still no rubber sidewalks in Iowa. —Louisville Courier-Journal.

CHAPTER XVII.
THE necessary formalities of departure were speedily got through. The passing of the carriage, seemed to Loder to be marvellously simple proceedings. Then, as he sat by Eve's side and again felt the forward movement of the horses, he had leisure for the first time to wonder whether the time that had passed since last he occupied that position had actually been lived through.

Only that night he had unconsciously compared one incident in his life to a sketch in which the lights and shadows have been obliterated and lost. Now that picture rose before him, startlingly and incredibly intact. He saw the sunlit houses of Santasalar, backgrounded by the sunlit hills—saw them as plainly as when he himself had sketched them on his memory. Every detail of the scene remained the same, even to the central figure; only the eye and the hand of the artist had changed.

At this point Eve broke in upon his thoughts. Her first words were curiously coincidental.
"What did you think of Lillian Astrup tonight?" she asked. "Wasn't her gown perfect?"

Loder lifted his head with an almost guilty start. Then he answered faintly from his thoughts.

"I didn't notice it," he said, "but her eyes reminded me of a cat's eyes—and she walks like a cat. I never seemed to see it—until tonight."

Eve changed her position. "She was very artistic," she said tentatively. "Don't you think the gold gown was beautiful with her pale-colored hair?"

Loder felt surprised. He was convinced that Eve disliked the other, and he was not sufficiently versed in women to understand her praise. "I thought," he began. "Then he wisely stopped. 'I didn't see the gown,' he substituted.

Eve looked out of the window. "How unappreciative men are!" she said. But her tone was strangely free from censure.

After this there was silence until Groves square was reached. Having left the carriage and passed into the house, Eve paused for a moment at the foot of the stairs to give an order to Crapbam, who was still in attendance in the hall, and again Loder had an opportunity of studying her. As he looked a sharp comparison rose to his mind.

"A fairy princess!" he had heard the red-haired man say as Lillian Astrup came into view along the Bramfells' corridor, and the simile had seemed particularly apt. With her grace, her delicacy, her subtle attraction, she might well be the outcome of imagination. But with Eve it was different. She also was graceful and attractive, but it was grace and attraction of a different order. One was beautiful with the beauty of the white rose that springs from the hot-house and withers at the first touch of cold; the other with the beauty of the wild rose on the cliffs above the sea, that keeps its petals fine and transparent in face of salt spray and wet mist. Eve, too, had her realm, but it was the realm of real things. A great confidence, a feeling that here one might rely even if all other faiths were shaken, touched him suddenly. For a moment he stood irresolute, watching her mount the stairs with her easy, assured step. Then a determination came to him. Fate favored him tonight; he was in luck tonight. He would put his fortune to one more test. He swung across the hall and ran up the stairs.

His face was keen with interest as he reached her side. The hard outline of his features and the hard grayness of his eyes were softened as when he had paused to talk with Lakeley. Action was the breath of his life, and his face changed under it as another's might change under the influence of stirring music or good wine.

Eve saw the look and again the uneasy expression of surprise crossed her eyes. She paused, her hand resting on the banister.

"Loder looked at her directly. 'Will you come into the study as you came that other night? There's something I want to say.' He spoke quietly. He felt master of himself and her."

She hesitated, glanced at him and then stepped away.

"Will you come," he said again. And as he said it his eyes rested on the sweep of her thick eyelashes, the curve of the back hair.

"At last her lashes lifted and the perplexity and doubt in her blue eyes stirred him. Without waiting for her answer, he leaned forward.

"Say yes!" he urged. "I don't often ask for favors."

Still she hesitated. Then her decision was made for her. With a new boldness he touched her arm, drawing her forward gently but decisively toward Chilcote's room.

In the study a fire burned brightly, the desk was laden with papers, the lights were nicely adjusted, even the chairs were in their accustomed places. Loder's senses responded to each suggestion. It seemed but a day since he had seen it last. It was precisely as he had left it—the niche needing but the man.

the sudden sight of Chilcote had lifted him to the skies; since then surprise had assailed him in its strongest form; he had known the full meaning of the word "risk," and from every contingency he had come out conqueror. He bent over the chair as he pulled it forward to hide the expression in his eyes.

"Sit down," he said gently. She moved toward him. She moved slowly, as if half afraid. Many emotions stirred her—distrust, uncertainty and a curious half dominant, half suppressed questioning that it was difficult to define. Loder remembered her shrinking coldness, her reluctant tolerance on the night of his first coming, and his individuality, his certainty of power, kindled afresh. Never had he been so vehemently himself; never had Chilcote seemed so complete a shadow.

As Eve seated herself he moved forward and leaned over the back of his chair. The impulse that had filled him in his interview with Renwick, that had goaded him as he drove to the reception, was dominant again.

"I tried to say something as we drove to the Bramfells' tonight," he began. Like many men who possess eloquence for an impersonal cause, he was brusque, even blunt, in the stating of his own case. "May I talk back, and go on from where I broke off?"

Eve half turned. Her face was still puzzled and questioning. "Of course," she sat forward again, clasping her hands.

He looked thoughtfully at the back of her head, at the slim outline of her shoulders, the glitter of the diamonds about her neck.

"Do you remember the day, three weeks ago, that we talked together in this room—the day a great many things seemed possible?"

"This time she did not look round. She kept her gaze upon the fire.

"Do you remember?" he persisted quietly. In his college days men who heard that tone of quiet persistence had been wont to lose heart. Eve heard it now for the first time and without being aware, answered to it.

"Yes, I remember," she said.

"On that day you believed in me." In his earnestness he no longer simulated reliance. He saw Eve stir, unclasp and clasp her hands, but he went steadily on. "On that day you saw me in a new light. You acknowledged me." He emphasized the slightly peculiar word. "But since that day—your feelings have changed, your faith in me has fallen away."

He watched her closely, but she made no sign; save to lean still nearer to the fire. He crossed his arms over the back of her chair. "You were justified," he said suddenly. "I've not been myself since that day."

As he said the words his coolness forsook him slightly. He loathed the necessary lie, yet his egotism clamored for vindication. "All men have their lapses," he went on. "There are times—there are days and weeks when I—when my—"

The word "nerves" touched his tongue, hung upon it, then died away unspoken.

Very quietly, almost without a sound, Eve had risen and turned toward him. She was standing very straight, her face a little pale, the hand that rested on the arm of her chair trembling slightly.

"John," she said quickly, "don't say that word. Don't say that hideous word 'nerves.' I don't feel that I can bear it tonight—not just tonight. Can you understand?"

Loder stepped back. Without comprehending, he felt suddenly and strangely at a loss. Something in her face struck him silent and perplexed. It seemed that without preparation he had stepped upon dangerous ground. With an undefined apprehension, he waited, looking at her.

"I can't explain it," she went on with nervous haste. "I can't give any reasons, but quite suddenly—the face has grown unbearable. I used not to think—used not even to care—but suddenly things have changed—or I have changed."

"Why should it be? Why should things change?" She asked the question sharply, as if in appeal against her own incredulity.

Loder turned aside. He was afraid of the triumph, volcanic and irrepressible, that her admission roused.

"Why?" she said again.

He turned slowly back. "You forget that I'm not a magician," he said softly. "I hardly know what you are speaking of."

For a moment she was silent, but in that moment her eyes spoke. Pain, distress, pride, all strove for expression; then at last her lips parted.

"Do you say that in seriousness?" she asked.

PATRIOTISM IS OUR CHIEF DUTY

Grover Cleveland Warns of Tendency of Times

Land We Live In Is All Right; But What of Land That Lives In Us.

SPEAKS AT UNION LEAGUE

Chicago, Feb. 23.—Former President Cleveland was the guest of honor last night at the banquet of the Union League club, sharing post-prandial honors with Richard Watson Glider of New York and Howard L. Smith, dean of the University of Wisconsin law school.

"I have always understood," said Cleveland, "that an after dinner speech must be in a kind of merry and complimentary mood. Now I am an essentially sober, somber man and I do not think I am altogether to blame for this. I think the voters of the United States are truly implicated as accessories before the fact, because they put me in a position where I contracted solemnly a good deal as the boy caught measles by sitting next to it."

Patriotism Our Chief Duty.

"I would not have you think for a moment that the allusion to the years when I bore solemn and responsible public duties is made in a flippant way. On the contrary, whenever I recall those years it is only to increase the solemnity of my mood. I would not have all our people remember. But I would have them thoughtful, and I would have them patriotic. In the midst of all their hopefulness, I would have them remember that more than all this there is duty stern duty, always present that they owe to their country, and this duty is patriotism. When we believe that we are merely contributors to this fund of patriotism, and that this fund of love, a fund of brotherhood, a fund of fairness, and a fund of American opportunity, then we have the right idea of American citizenship."

"I would like the people of Chicago to love their country, as they love their city. No more can be asked of anybody who enjoys the blessings of free American institutions."

Speeches by Glider and Professor Smith followed the close of Cleveland's address.

Cleveland Speech.
Cleveland's speech, in part, follows:

The commemoration of the day on which American independence was born, has been allowed to lose much of its significance as a reminder of the providential favor and the inflexible patriotism of the fathers of the republic, and has nearly degenerated to a level of senseless noise and dangerous explosion leaving in its train far more of mishap and accident, than lessons of good citizenship or pride of country. The observance of Thanksgiving Day is kept alive through its annual designation by federal and state authority. But it is worth our while to inquire whether its original meaning, as a day of united praise and gratitude to God for the blessings bestowed upon us as a people and as individuals, is not smothered in feasting and social indulgence. We in common with Christian nations everywhere celebrate Christmas—but how much less as a day of commemorating the birth of the Redeemer of mankind, than as a day of hilarity and the interchange of gifts.

Consecration, Not Praise.
If your observance of this day were intended to make more secure the immortal fame of Washington, or to add to the strength and beauty of his imperishable monument built upon a nation's affectionate remembrance, your purpose would be useless. Washington has no need of you. But if every moment from the time he drew his sword in the cause of American independence to this hour, living or dead, the American people have needed him. It is not important now nor will it be in all the coming years, to remind our countrymen that Washington has lived and that his achievements in his country's service are above all praise. But it is important—and more important now than ever before—that they should clearly apprehend and adequately value the virtues and ideals of which he was the embodiment and should realize how essential to our safety and perpetuity are the consecration and patriotism which he exemplified. The American people need today the example and teachings of Washington no less than those who fashioned our nation need his labors and guidance.

Scenes, Agitations and Demagogues.
If we find that the wickedness of destructive agitators and the selfish depravity of demagogues have stirred up discontent and strife where there should be peace and harmony and have arrayed against each other interests which should dwell together in hearty co-operation; if we find that the old standards of sturdy uncompromising American honesty have become so corroded and weakened by a sordid atmosphere that our people are hardly startled by crimes in high places and shameful betrayals of trust everywhere; if we find a sadly prevalent disposition among us to turn from the highway of honorable industry into shorter cross roads leading to irresponsible and worthless ease; if we find that widespread wastefulness and extravagance have discredited the wholesome frugality which was once the pride of Americanism, we should recall Washington's admonition that harmony, industry, and frugality are "essential pillars of public felicity," and forthwith endeavor to change our course.

Political Parties Are Human.
Political parties are exceedingly human; and they easier fall before temptation than individuals, by so much as partisan success is the law of their life and because their responsibility is impersonal. It is easily recalled that political organizations have been quite willing to utilize gusts of popular prejudice and resentment; and I believe they have been known as a matter of shrewd management to encourage voters to hope for some measure of relief from economic abuses, and yet to "stand pat" on the day appointed for realization.

We have fallen upon a time when it behooves every thoughtful citizen whose political beliefs are based on reason and who cares enough for his manliness and duty to save them from barter, to realize that the organization of the party of his choice needs watching, and that at times it is not amiss critically to observe its direction and tendency.

The land we live in seems to be strong and active. But how fares the land that lives in us? Are we sure that we are doing all we ought to keep it in vigor and health? Are we keeping its roots well surrounded by the fertile soil of loving allegiance and are we furnishing them the invigorating moisture of unselfish fidelity?

The land we live in is safe so long as we are dutifully careful of the land that lives in us.

Catarrh

"Catarrh is nothing but a rheumatism of the mucus membranes; it is cured by the same drugs which cure rheumatism elsewhere," writes Alexander Haig, A. M., M. D. Oxon. That is, according to the above world-famous authority on the causes of disease, catarrh, like rheumatism, is due to uric acid and is cured only by the medicine which removes the uric acid.

Uric acid is a waste product of your body and which your blood carries to the kidneys to be expelled. This, however, your blood cannot always properly do. If the mucus membrane is chilled, the uric acid forms tiny crystals, resembling grains of fine sand. Millions of these little grains lodge in the delicate mucus membranes and constantly irritate them, causing mucous discharges, just as a grain of sand in your eye would cause tears.

Local applications, douches, gargles, sprays, etc., are absolutely useless in catarrh, because they cannot reach the actual seats of the uric acid deposits.

LIFE PLANT is just such a medicine as is above spoken of by Dr. Haig, as being the cure for rheumatism, catarrh, and all other diseases due to uric acid. LIFE PLANT dissolves and removes every trace of uric acid. If you have Catarrh, take LIFE PLANT at once.—Grateful kithers from relieved sufferers reach our offices every day. Read this:

After a siege of ten years of that dread disease, Catarrh of the head, and failure of all other treatments, I was induced to try Life Plant. The first relief gave relief, and, when I had taken two more, was free from cured of Catarrh.

Old Circus Man Tells Stump Water Story

In the days when railroads were not such a net-work over the country as they now are, and when the inland inhabitants had little or no variety to life than the occasional circuses and shows that came over-land, the fakir was in the high tide of his successful career. Faking goes on now but in a guise different from the old regime and along more intellectual and subtler lines. The personalities of several stars of the sawdust ring and the side show stand forth from that period in the country's history, scarcely a decade past so rapidly has been the country's expansion, almost isolated in their ability. Dan Rice, known to older Paducah citizens, was one of them. But of the whole line none was more endowed with a genius for resourcefulness and with the ability to turn circumstances, apparently adverse, to successful account, than Bill Lewis.

Bill Lewis was born in Cumberland City, Tenn., about the time of the Civil war, and was a blacksmith by trade. One day he threw down his tools and walked out of the shop, saying he was tired of working. From that day until his death he led a career as a fakir scarcely paralleled for its ingenuity in working the public for a living. It was with Bill Lewis that the Mountaineer spent several years in the show business, traveling over the country with a troupe sometimes, and sometimes the two alone. As the exigencies which called forth Bill's greatest games and tricks, occurred when they were traveling alone, particular attention will be paid to their doings together.

Whether it was assuming a sudden religious zeal or engaged in the devil's own business, Bill managed to make all conditions and circumstances turn to his financial advantage. Usually he was dead broke. It was that condition which was the incentive of what may be named the "Stump Water" racket which he worked on a western town to considerable financial advantage to himself and his partner, but with educational, if costly, results to its citizens.

"Bill and me had been working over the country," began the Mountaineer, "until one time we found ourselves near a town down in the territories dead broke. We only had a dollar and a half between us. Bill was cursing his luck and wishing something would turn up for several days. There wasn't a railroad near there and we was hoofing it through the country. As we got near the town, we passed an old stump of a big tree that was filled with stump water. Stump water has a greenish kind of color and is different from ordinary rain water. Bill stopped and said: 'John, I've got an idea that ought to make us some money. I don't know whether it'll work or not but we can try.'

"What's up?" I asked.
"Don't you bother. You take the whole dollar and a half and go into the town and buy as many of the smallest vials you can for that much. Spend every cent of it for them."
"I didn't like much spending our last cent for bottles, but I went into town and got the vials. When I got back to Bill he took the vials and filled them all with that stump water. Now," he says, "I'm going into town and put up at the hotel. I'm going to play like I'm terrible sick with the cramp colic and you've got to come in and cure me with this stump water."

"I saw through his game then and we arranged everything so as it would work smooth. Bill was to get terrible sick with the colic and would tell them to get a doctor. I'd be around handy and rush in and cure him. Then we'd sell the rest of the and then he'd let go with both hands and both feet and kick like he was mad. And he kept gettin' worse."

"Bring me some water," I commanded, 'about a wine glass full, and be particular about the amount.' They brought me the water and I opened one of the small vials. I counted seven drops carefully into the water and said: 'Get that into him as quick as you can.' They poured it down him and I took some of the stump water and rubbed his joints with it.

"The effect of that stump water on Bill was wonderful. He hadn't more than swallowed it before you could notice a difference. His kicking and groaning began to get easier until finally he just give up and fell over as limp as a rag. I kept rubbing with the stump water until Bill opened his eyes and asked where he was.

"Well, sir, the rest of the tale's short. Bill soon got up and was as well as ever. 'Course, a crowd has collected and we had eye-witness of the power of my medicine. Everybody was telling everybody else how Bill had been cargin' on and how he'd been cured.

So Bill gets up before the crowd and addresses them. 'Ladies and Gentlemen,' he says, 'As you see I owe my life to this unknown man who happened to be handy when I was dying. It may be that he has some of his medicine to sell. I'm going to buy a bottle myself to carry with me all the time for emergencies and if you I advise you to do likewise.'

Then he turned to me and thanked me with all his heart for my noble work in saving his life and said:

"What's the price of a bottle?"
"Fifty cents a piece," I said, "and I've got a grip full of them."

"They're worth ten times the amount," he says.
"He's right," said the hotel clerk. "I seen him do it."

"Well, I sold out those vials at fifty cents apiece and Bill and myself didn't lose no time getting out of town. We cleaned up a pretty good sum, but we was broke again about the time we got near the Mexican border. Down there Bill worked another racket that was scandalous. I haven't got time to tell it now, but you come back on it.

PRESIDENT'S POLICY

He; and adequate protection for wage-workers. We have done much in enforcing the law alike against great and small; against crimes of greed and cunning no less than against crimes of violence and brutality. We have wrought mightily for the peace of righteousness, both among the nations and in social and industrial life here at home. Much has been done, and we are girding up our loins to do more.

Barren Criticism.

In all these matters there have been some men in public life and some men in private life whose action has been at every point one of barren criticism or fruitless obstruction. These men have had no part or lot in the great record of achievement and success; the record of good work worthily done. Some of these men have been college graduates; but all of them have been poor servants of the people, unless where they were not harmful. All the credit for the good thus accomplished in the public life of this decade belongs to those who have done affirmative work in such matters as those I have enumerated above, and not to those who, with more or less futility, have sought to hamper and obstruct the work that has thus been done.

In short, you college men, be doers rather than critics of the deeds that others do. Stand stoutly for your ideals, but keep in mind that they can only be realized, even partially, by practical methods of achievement. Remember always that this republic of ours is a very real democracy, and that you can only win success by showing that you have the right stuff in you. The college man, the man of intellect and training, should take the lead in every fight for civic and social righteousness. He can take that lead only if in a spirit of thoroughgoing democracy he takes his place among his fellows, not standing aloof from them, but mixing with them, so that he may know, may feel, may sympathize with their hopes, their ambitions, their principles—and even their prejudices—as an American among Americans, as a man among men.

Ignorance of the law excuses no one not even the lawyer.

Shipp Records Suit.

Frankfort, Ky., Feb. 23.—A copy of the court of appeals' decision in the Shipp case from Taylor county, was forwarded to Delphin M. Delmas today by J. H. Hazelrigg, upon receipt of a telegram from Thaw's lawyers asking for the opinion.

Lawyers remarked when the opinion was handed down this week of the similarity in many features between the case and the Thaw case. Shipp shot to death James Smith, after Shipp's wife had confessed to him her wrongdoing with his victim. He pleaded insanity, but was given a life sentence in the Taylor county court of appeals. In the Thaw case, the court of appeals overruled, laying down a number of important rules of evidence for cases of such character which it is believed Delmas may find useful in the Thaw case.

Gaines-Haly Suit Continued.

Henderson, Ky., Feb. 23.—Owing to the fact that the defendant, Percy Haly, in the suit of Noel Gaines against Percy Haly and the Postal Telegraph and Cable company, in the circuit court here, filed an amended answer when the case was called up before Judge J. W. Henson Thursday and the plaintiff was not compelled to file a reply at once, the trial being postponed until the 30th day of next May.

PLACE YOUR REAL ESTATE WITH AN ACTIVE AGENCY

In offering your real estate for sale, have you ever considered the much greater benefit you get from the real estate agent who takes a detailed description of your property and advertises it prominently and persistently until sold?

Compare this with the method of the old-school agent who carefully fills out a card, files it away and then sits down to wait for some straggling prospect to come in and ask for it.

The HOLLINS AGENCY does more high-class advertising of individual property, giving full and complete description, than all the other real estate agents of Paducah combined. This is the reason our list is so active—it's the reason people come to us when they want to buy.

This advertising costs us money—lots of it. You know this if you've ever tried it. But this expense is all taken care of in our commission, which is not a bit more than is charged by other agents who effects sales after long and tedious waiting.
